NOTORIOUS POISONER.

Dr. Henry C. W. Myer Falls Into the Hands of Police.

Poisoned an Old Man, Married the Widow, and Then Poisons Her and Her Son.

DETROIT, July 13.—Last night one of the most notorious poisoners in America fell into the hands of the police, and today at Chicago, New York and Toledo will begin a legal war for his custody.

Two local detectives, guided by Detective Julian, of New York, and two Pinkerton men, arrested Dr. Henry C. W. Myer, at 121 Clifford street, on suspicion. Julian and the Pinkerton men have been on his track for two years, and finally cornered him in Detroit, collecting in the meantime evidence which, they say, will cause Myer to suffer the death penalty.

Julian says that Myer graduated from the Chicago Homeopathic school in 1878, and his operations began a year later, when he poisoned his first wife. Then he poisoned an old man named Gilderman, and married the widow, poisoning her son and finally herself.

Myer then moved from Chicago to New York, where he went into a partnership with a man named Brant, their scheme being to beat the insurance companies. Brant was to take out heavy insurance, become sick and apparently die, a corpse being procured from some other source and used to get the insurance. Brant took some medicine to render him unconscious, and then it is charged that Myer poisoned him, collecting the insurance.

In some way Myer persuaded an Indianapolis girl to accompany him to Toledo, where he also poisoned her. Chemists have analyzed the drug he is accused of using, but have failed to find out what it was.

He is said to have collected $7,000, that is known, from insurance companies, and the detectives feel confident there are more cases to hear from. Requisition papers are expected today, and, although there are four cases against him in Chicago, it is said efforts will be made to send him to New York, where the case is alleged to be strong enough to warrant electrocution.

FAST FLYERS.

Mary Centlivre at Pittsburg—Races at Saginaw and Columbus.

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 13.—One of the features of the third day of the Grand Circuit Races yesterday was the dropping dead at the finish of the 2:25 pace of Kissel Pointer. The horse was one of the two strong favorites for the race. The track record at Homewood for either trotting or pacing in a race was broken by Martha Wilkes in the free-for-all trot, the mare making the circuit in 2:11¼, and lowering her own record one second. Centlivre was favorite in the morning in the unfinished 2.14 pace, but got the third place. Alvin Swift captured the last heat and race, and lowered his record one second. In the 2:40 trotting for two-year-olds and under San Souci sold as a sure thing, but acted badly. Wardwell opened a strong favorite in the pools for the 2:15 trot, one of the best races of the day. It was a close contest between Wardwell and Muta Wilkes. Complex, one of the two strong favorites in the 2:25 pace, captured the race without much of an argument. Martha Wilkes was made favorite in the free-for-all trot and took the first two heats without a falter. The third heat was the most exciting heat of the day, Magnolia finishing two lengths ahead of Martha.

SAGINAW, Mich., July 13.—The crowd at the races yesterday was estimated at 8,000. The weather was hot and the contests were not as good as the first two days. In the 2:20 trot, San Pedro and David B., had a pretty race down the stretch, and the first heat was won by Pedro in 2:14½. David B. was easily defeated in the next two heats.

COLUMBUS, Ind., July 13.—Yesterday's racing brought out a large crowd. Fast time was made, especially in the 2:20 pace:

2:20 pace—Steel Prince, first; Barney, second; Ialine, third—best time, 2:10¼.

2:23 trot, purse $400—Letcher, first; Wanelah, second—best time, 2:18.

2:33 trot, purse $300—Scotia, first, Cresson, second; Belado, third—best time, 2:21¼.

CHICAGO, July 13.—Rudolph won the Great Western handicap at Washington park with comparative ease, beating the best horses at the track. The distance was a mile and a half and nine started.

LIBERAL ORANGEMAN.

Rev. Peters Speaks Words of Praise for Catholics.

NEW YORK, July 13.—At the Orangemen's picnic at Brunner's Ridgewood grove yesterday, the Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters, one of the speakers, somewhat startled the audience by the liberality of his views in regard to the Catholic church. "I rejoice," he said, "that there is in the Catholic church today a great spirit of liberalism, toleration and progressiveness. I thank God for such men as Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Ireland. Some of you may feel worried because we have an American pope. I am glad of it, because we shall soon have the American Catholic church instead of the Roman Catholic."

A TINY WAR CLOUD

Appears in the Horizon Above the Behring Sea.

British Marines and Soldiers Will be Conveniently Stationed, Ready to Seize American Ships.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 13.—An English capitalist who has large dealings with the British navy is now in San Francisco. He received word yesterday from a friend in the admiralty asking his advice about the kind of cloth necessary for making suits for marines at Esquimault and Victoria, B. C. The latter stated that a contract would soon be let for 1,000 suits. This correspondent also said that the uniforms were for the fourth battalion of the royal rifle brigade, now at Davenport, England, on waiting orders. The writer also said Col. Pryor, of the brigade, would be military director at Esquimault and the battle ship Minotaur would soon join the royal Arthur at that station. These facts and the recent arrangements made by the Canadian Pacific for swift transportation of troops from Montreal to Victoria lead this English capitalist to the conclusion that Sir Charles Russell's hint that England would only regard the Behring sea conference decision as morally binding, contained a covert threat. He says that everything looks as though Great Britain was preparing to release any sealers who may be captured this fall by American cruisers and defy our navy to prevent such interference. As we have simply old wooden vessels, such as the Ranger, Corwin, Bear and Albatross, one battle ship like the Minotaur could sink the entire outfit, not to mention the cruisers Nimph and Garnet, which are more than a match for any of our fleet.

SEEKING DAMAGES.

Mrs. Miller Will Bring Suit Against Bardwell.

Judge Tourgee at the Head of a Movement Against the Lynchers of the Negro, Miller.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 13.—It is reported here that the National Citizens' Rights association, of which Judge Albion W. Tourgee is president, has interested itself in the case of C. J. Miller, hanged and burned at Bardwell. Backed by the organization, Mrs. Berlie Miller, wife of the negro, will bring an action for damages in the federal court against the city marshal and his bondsmen, at Sikeston, Mo.; the sheriff of Carlisle county, Ky., his bondsmen, and the members of the posse individually, who aided in the capture of Miller, all citizens of Illinois, Missouri and Kentucky, who participated in the affair, and the corporation of Bardwell, in which it occurred. Suit will be commenced in the United States court for the southern district of Illinois.

INDIANA TOWN BURNED.

Princeton Suffers a Loss of Many Thousand Dollars.

PRINCETON, Ind., July 13.—This city was visited by a destructive fire yesterday. At 3 o'clock flames were discovered issuing from a law office and before they could be extinguished the fire spread to other buildings and the best portion of the business part of the city was destroyed. The loss is estimated at $250,000, with insurance amounting to $150,000. But one life is reported lost at this writing. The body of a man was found but not recognized. Many were overcome by the heat but no deaths reported. Had it not been for the Evansville fire department arriving in the city at 5 o'clock the entire city would have been destroyed. Electric light wires are all down, leaving the city in total darkness.

THE PASTOR ALL RIGHT.

Rev. Potter Acquitted of a Serious Charge.

NEW YORK, July 13.—After several weeks of secret investigation the special committee appointed to examine into charges made against Rev. D. C. Potter, pastor of the Tabernacle Baptist church, by Rev. J. W. Putnam, co-pastor of the same church, and John V. Huiell, have declared them "wholly unproved and false," and have expressed their renewed confidence in the integrity and Christian character of that divine. Mr. Putnam, his accuser, was cited to appear before the committee for violation of the rules of the church.

DEAD BODIES FOUND

Covered With a Blanket in a Lonely Spot.

WEST NEWTON, Pa., July 13.—The dead bodies of two men were found about two miles west of here last evening, in a dense thicket in a coal hollow, on the Ray farm. While the Ray children were picking berries they found the bodies, which were covered with an old blanket. Mr. Ray notified the coroner, who, with the borough constable, started for the place. As yet there is no clue to the identity of the dead men.

There will be a social given by the Third Presbyterian church people this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boggs on Breckenridge street, to which all are cordially invited, especially those who have recently been taken into the church.

George Hobson of Plymouth is the guest of Fred Hobson, of this city.

COMING OUR WAY.

More Gold From Europe En Route to New York

And an Easier Feeling Rules Among Bankers, Such As to Afford Financial Encouragement.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Notwithstanding the flurry in the stock market today bank presidents and others occupying positions familiarizing them with current conditions, unanimously agree that the general situation has improved and continues to do so. There was nothing in the financial situation of the country to produce such an unsettling.

At several of the larger banks it was said today that considerable amounts of currency had been received yesterday and again this morning. One large Broadway bank yesterday received $500,000 in currency and gold from the country. Some of the gold was received back from California. The Fourth National bank received $311,000 in currency yesterday from country correspondents, and today its receipts of currency by the first express delivery amounted to $185,000, with a lot more in sight.

As an indication of the easier condition prevailing, it was reported today that many country banks were remitting currency here and getting back some of their bills receivable, which they had rediscounted here three or four weeks ago, taking advantage, of course, of the rebate in the discount for the unexpired time. At all the large banks today it was said that the demands of out of town customers for accommodation were lighter than they had been for weeks.

The North German Lloyd steamer Trave, Captain Sander, from Bremen, which sailed at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon for New York, has on board gold to the amount of $535,000.

MEAT INSPECTION.

It Costs the Government Enormously to Keep it Up.

Secretary Morton Wants the Exporters to Bear the Expense, as They Are the Beneficiaries.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—A short time ago Secretary Morton issued a circular addressed to the packers of meat, in which he asked for views as to the advisability of diminishing the force of employes in the bureau of animal industry, and whether or not the inspection of meat now conducted by a bureau at the expense of the government ought not to be conducted by the exporters themselves. The criticism following this circular was to the effect that the secretary proposed to abandon the inspection of meat and thereby threaten the stoppage of all our exportations. "I have not proposed the stoppage of meat inspection," said Secretary Morton, discussing the subject today, "for the law distinctly says that it shall go on, and no officer has the power to abrogate the laws enacted by congress. However, under that law there is a discretionary power which enables the secretary to reduce expenses, and especially unnecessary ones. If the benefits to be derived from the law are supposed to be in the direction of creating a demand for our meats abroad, then the law is a failure. The inspection of beef for export began May 18, 1891, and the first shipment of inspected beef was made May 22, four days later. The microscopic inspection of pork for export began and the first inspected pork exported was shipped September 5, 1891. Since inspection began, up to May 31 last, a period of a little more than two years, we have sold to countries, certificates of inspection meat of the value of $3,574,113. During the same period the expense of inspection was 8 per cent. of the value of the entire product sold by reason of the inspection. The question is: shall the people be taxed in this way to assist a few industries or shall the men engage in the business of exporting stand the expense themselves? It is not the intention of this department to do anything that will cripple the business of the country, but it is the positive intention to do all that can be done of cutting off useless and ornamental employes and that work will go on so long as any such officials are discovered."

NITROGLYCERINE.

It Explodes and Badly Injures Three Children.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Last evening, William Cox, aged twelve, his sister, Matilda, aged fourteen and Georgia Ward, aged twelve, found a pint and a quart bottle under a tree at the roadside. They threw several stones at the bottles. When one of the bottles was struck, an explosion followed that shook houses a mile away. A large hole was blown in the earth, trees and fences were thrown down and the children hurled many feet away. The bottles contained nitroglycerine. William Cox was fatally hurt. The girls were badly injured and are in a critical condition.

MAN SHOT.

A Posse in Pursuit of the Two Murderers.

FORT GIBSON, I. T., July 13.—George McDaniels, United States solicitor for this district, was shot and killed last night at Braggs station, ten miles south of here, by John Fields and George Sanders. The cause of the shooting is unknown. A posse is in pursuit of the murderers.

J. N. Lynch, of Decatur, Ind., is a guest of the Randall today.

ONE MORE BODY

Is Taken From the Ruins of the Burned House.

Nineteen Dead Bodies Have Now Been Removed and Two More Persons Are Unaccounted For.

WORLD'S FAIR GROUNDS, July 13.—Another remnant of a human body was found in the ruins of the cold storage warehouse this morning. The total number of dead is now nineteen, and no man knows if any more bodies will be discovered. More may have been burned to death, and the flames may not have left enough of the body to be recognized as such. The charred remnant of a corpse found this morning shortly after the workmen began their task, consisted only of a few ribs and bones, just enough to tell the tale of another victim's horrible leap into the blazing pit.

The body was taken from the base of the smokestack, which indicates that the victim was one of those who did not jump from the tower, but must have been caught inside the tower. Enough bodies were brought from the ruins before today's discovery to account for all the missing firemen and Chief Murphy believes all of the bodies found farther from the smokestack belonged to his men. So it may be that the bones found today were those of some missing visitor to the fair, whom, it is feared, was in the building.

Fireman Davis, of truck No. 6, stationed in Midway Plaisance was the only man who descended from the burning tower and lived to tell the story. He slid down a lead of hose through the flame and smoke to the main roof and came to the ground in the elevator which did not again make the trip to the top. He sustained severe burns on both hands but was otherwise uninjured. Davis is almost certain that there were people still on the top floor of the building when the elevator stopped running and their escape was impossible.

Fireman Cahill, who was killed by jumping from the tower, joined Davis outside the grounds as the latter was making his way to the fire and remarked: "The old trap is on fire again and they ought to let it burn this time." Cahill had just sent $125 to his family to pay the expenses of his mother's funeral, which took place a few days ago.

THE COURTS.

Preliminary Hearing of the Edgerton Murderers.

Their Trial in the Circuit Court Room Before Justice Ryan—The Day in the Courts.

Hugh Crye, jr., Budd Crye, Emerson Deal, Joe Deal and Lewis Boner, the five men who are charged with murdering Hugh Crye, sr., and Lewis Boyer at Edgerton, were taken before Justice Ryan in the superior court room at 2 o'clock this afternoon and the preliminary examination of their cases begun. There are several attorneys representing them: W. G. Colerick and J. R. Bittenger, Henry Colerick and J. K. Franco, Chester Holder and J. M. Robinson. The cases against all the defendants will be heard together.

Rosalie Merlot has commenced suit in the superior court for a divorce from her husband, Matthew Merlot, who she alleges has deserted her and fails to provide for her support. They were married in 1881. G. W. Loutit is the attorney for the plaintiff.

The last will of Henry Schoonefeld has been filed in the county clerk's office. He gives all of his property to his wife.

Nellie Schramm sues Christina and William Rose, A. L. Bagby, and L. S. Schroeder, for $450 damages for unlawfully levying on her property. J. B. Harper is attorney for the plaintiff.

Emil Stoll and Anna Heit, John Scherer and Lizzie Rehling, Thomas A. Davis and Clara Myers, have been licensed to wed.

In the suit of the First National bank against Sidney C. Lumbard, receiver for Coombs & Co., in the superior court, Judge Dawson refused to allow the Courtland Forging company to be made a party defendant to the suit.

The sheriff and his deputies arrested eight tramps in the eastern part of the city last evening. Justice Ryan sent five of them to jail. The other three were released. The tramps have been robbing houses, it is said, in the east end.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

A West Shore Train Jumps a Switch and Is Wrecked.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., July 13.—A terrible accident occurred here at 12 o'clock. The west bound West Shore train, due here at 12:01, ran into an open switch, half a mile south of the depot, and a bad smash up occurred. Four bodies have been taken out of the wreck. A large number of the badly injured are being taken in all kinds of conveyances to the hospital. It is said there are from eight to ten killed and over a dozen injured.

MEETING OF BAPTISTS.

The International Convention Now in Session.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 13.—The international convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America opened here this afternoon, and will continue three days. Most of the states and Canada are well represented. Indications are that 3,000 delegates will be present. Last evening a party of 100 arrived from Baltimore, Philadelphia and Washington. President John H. Chapman, of Chicago, opened the convention this afternoon and addresses of welcome were delivered by E. E. Stevenson, of the Baptist County People's union, of Indianapolis, and others, while responses were delivered by Rev. H. L. Henson, Baltimore; Rev C. A. Barbour, Rochester, N. Y., and others.

MARRIED IN FUN!

Mock Marriage Between Fred Borneman and Lillian Long

Turns Out to Be Legal and Now the Parties Ask the Courts to Annul It.

Frederick Borneman, through his attorney J. M. Robinson, commences suit in the superior court against Lillian Long, asking that a marriage contract made between himself and the defendant may be annulled by the court.

The suit is one that grows out of a mock marriage which was performed Monday night at 23 East Columbia street, by Justice Charles A. Hoys, by which Mr. Borneman and Miss Long were legally made man and wife, when they only intended that the marriage ceremony should be in fun.

The two, it seems, were out Monday night for a merry time, and with Miss Florence Sherman and Miss Effie Burk, were enjoying themselves when the subject of getting married in fun was broached. After some bantering on both sides, they both consented to it, as a joke, and Justice Hoys was sent for and he soon responded to the call, attired in his best Sunday dress suit. He did not propose, however, to be caught "on a pin hook" and so went to the county clerk's office and secured a marriage license, after which he married the parties in legal form.

The justice made the ceremony very lengthy and unique, and after it was over, as is his custom, positively refused to kiss the blushing bride.

The two principal actors in this merry night's fun regarded the marriage as a joke and did not think that it would be legal in any respect. When the next day came they were chagrined and disappointed to find out that they had been lawfully made man and wife and that a legal return of their marriage had been filed by the justice of the peace with the county clerk.

Steps were at once taken by them to set the marriage ceremony aside. Mr. Borneman sought out Mr. J. M. Robinson, the attorney, and he filed a petition in the superior court setting forth the facts and asking that the marriage contract between Mr. Borneman and Miss Long be annuled. The petition says that the marriage ceremony was intended by the parties as only a joke and was so regarded by the justice and the two witnesses to it, Miss Sherman and Miss Burk. The affidavits of the two latter accompany the petition and they both set forth the above facts and say that the whole marriage ceremony was regarded by them and the parties to it as a joke, and was not to be binding in law and they had no idea that the justice had procured a marriage license or that he was performing a real marriage ceremony.

The plaintiff says in his petition that the marriage license was procured without his knowledge or consent and he had no thought that the ceremony was a legal one. He says that he and Miss Long have never lived together as man and wife and asks that the court annul the marriage contract.

HEAD CRUSHED.

An Express Messenger On the Nickel Plate Road Meets With a Fearful Accident.

Charles Sauerzein, aged thirty, an express messenger employed by the National Express company and running between this city and Cleveland met with a frightful accident on the Nickel Plate, at 10 o'clock this morning. He was at work in his car when a 350 pound box of expressage fell upon him, crushing his head in a fearful manner. He was taken off the car in a dying condition. He is well known in this city and has been employed by the express company for ten years past.

SERIOUSLY HURT.

Two Well Known Ladies Meet With a Serious Runaway.

A shocking runaway accident occurred at 3:15 this afternoon. Mrs. Rudy Reinewald and child and Mrs William Beverforden were thrown out of a buggy at the corner of Clinton and Berry streets. Both ladies were rendered unconscious and were carried into Heaton's drug store. Mrs Beverforden was taken home in a carriage and at the hour of our going to press Mrs. Reinewald is still unconscious and at the drug store. The extent of the ladies' injuries can not now be ascertained. The child was unhurt.

The man who carries a deadly weapon concealed upon his person carries murder in his heart. He knows he violates the law in the first instance, and he intends to violate it again if, in his opinion, occasion requires. It is a cowardly, murderous, barbarous practice, indicative of a low state of civilization and of a dangerous degree of lawlessness. To it may be traced most of the homicides that occur, and, indirectly, most of the lynchings. The prevalence of the practice, in spite of the law against it, is indicative of social demoralization and a public sentiment that is either too corrupt to care or too nerveless to assert itself against a practice that is making a nation of murderers.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Fort Wayne's Manufacturing Interests in Good Shape.

Taken as a Whole the Conditions of Our Mechanics and Laborers Are Encouraging.

"Times are hard and business is at a standstill," is the remark often heard in business circles and upon the streets. This may be true so far as certain mercantile businesses are concerned, but it does not apply to our manufacturing interests. This season of the year is always dull with manufacturers, but business is no lighter now than it was during the corresponding period of the preceding years. To ascertain the facts in the case a SENTINEL reporter made the rounds of the shops this morning and the following is the result.

At the Pittsburg shops work appears to be plentiful and more men are employed this summer than there were the same period last year. The locomotive department has just taken up an order for the erection of eight class R freight engines, all of which are to leave the shops before lake navigation ceases, about the 1st of November. It takes two weeks to build an engine, and the cost is about $9,000, the greatest portion of which is for labor. If this order is not countermanded, and there is no reason for thinking it will be, the blacksmiths, boilermakers and machinists in the Pittsburg shops are not going to suffer much this year for want of employment. The outlook for work in the car department is just as good. The men have on hand now the building of 100 box cars, which task is about half completed. They have instructions to then build 100 gondolas. Cars are turned out at the rate of seven or eight a week and the new work alone, to say nothing of the repairs, will keep the men busy for two or three months. There are nearly 1,000 men employed in the Pittsburg shops at present.

Seven hundred men are as busy as bees at the Bass Foundry and Machine company's establishment. Part of the works, notably the boiler and machine shops, are running twelve hours per day. The firm have orders on their books for a score of steam plants and are behind with the work. Eleven engines are due to leave the works in July. Yesterday the company secured a contract from the Consumers' Paper company, of Muncie, Ind., for two large boilers.

Another busy establishment is the Wabash shops. There the men are worked overtime as a rule and complain of too much to do. This state of affairs is due to the large amount of repair work on engines from the new Detroit-Chicago lines. There are 210 men employed in the Wabash shops and the pay roll for June amounted to over $11,000.

At the electric light works business is fairly good and 400 men are given employment.

This is the dull season with wheelmakers, yet the Standard Wheel works are in operation steadily, working 250 men. During the busy season the works employ 400 men.

The Indiana machine works have been closed for two weeks, partly for repairs to machinery and on account of lack of business. The manager stated that the shop would resume operations next Monday, though business was very quiet.

The Horton Manufacturing company is running its establishment with a full force. Business is poor, however, and unless it improves in a week or two the firm will be overstocked with goods and compelled to suspend work in the shop.

One hundred and twenty-five employes are working at the Wayne Knitting mills, though Manager Thieme stated that the outlook for fall trade was discouraging. Merchants are not buying extensively and only the cheap grades at that. Orders for stockings are coming in and as long as the present conditions continue the works will be kept in operation.

The building boom that everybody expected this season has failed to materialize and business with the lumber dealers is not at all good. Rhinesmith & Simonson are running their factory with a full force, however, as is also Diether & Bros.

The bottom has dropped out of the furniture business. The Fort Wayne Furniture company, which gives employment to sixty five men, has settled down to a four day per week schedule in running its factory. If business does not improve soon the works will be closed indefinitely.

Peter's Box and Lumber company has suspended the manufacture of furniture until August 1, and seventy-five men are thus temporarily out of employment. The company's saw mill resumed operations this morning, after being closed for repairs since last Saturday.

The Fleming Manufacturing company complains of dull times, though they have enough business to keep twenty-two men at work. The factory has been closed for repairs but started up this morning.

At the S. F. Bowser Oil Tank works thirty-five men are working steadily nine hours per day. Business never was better. During the month of June the firm sold tanks to the amount of $15,771. The same month last year the sales amounted to [illegible]2,512. Mr. Bowser stated the collections were unusually good also.

A full force of men are working at the Olds Wagon works and business there is reported good [illegible] recently the works were behind their orders. The prospects for fall trade are very encouraging.

The Western Gas and Construction company is also enjoying a good business. This firm at present has its work done at the Bass foundry, but large shops are in course of construction and will soon be ready for occupancy. Fifty men will be employed in them at the start. This is one of the growing industries of Fort Wayne.

The Kerr Murray works are running and business is fairly good.

As usual this season of the year the Organ factory is closed and the men are idle.

Foster's waist factory is also closed.

The Paul Pulley works are running with a reduced force.

The Nickel Plate and Lake Erie and Western shops and yards are fairly busy and working full handed.

BISHOP RADEMACHER.

He is Transferred to the Fort Wayne Diocese.

The First Information Comes as a Cablegram From Rome to the Cincinnati Wahrheits Freund.

The Cincinnati Wahrheits Freund, a daily German Catholic paper, contains the following: "We have received the following cablegram:

'Rome, July 10.—Bishop Rademacher, of Nashville, has been transferred to Fort Wayne.'

"Of course this news will appear in the nature of a surprise, not alone to the people of Fort Wayne, but to all Catholics in the United States. A better successor to the late Bishop Dwenger could not have been selected. He is a clear headed theologian, charitable in all his views and a man eminently fitted for the high honor bestowed upon him.

"The Rt. Rev. Bishop Joseph Rademacher was born on December 3d, 1840, in the German settlement of Westphalia, Clinton county, Michigan, diocese of Detroit. He is therefore fifty-three years of age. He early attended the St. Vincent college of the Benedictine fathers, in Westmoreland, Pa. Here he studied theology and also supplemented his school life with a thorough course in gymnastics, becoming strong in body as well as in mind. This school is noted for its proficiency in teaching physical culture. As a student the young man was a hard worker and was universally loved, not only by his fellow students, but by the professors of the college. He completed his education in the St. Michael's seminary, diocese of Pittsburg, and was on the 2nd day of August, 1863, ordained a priest by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Leurs, of Fort Wayne, and was given his first charge in Attica, Fountain county, Indiana. Here he remained for six years, rendering excellent service to his congregation. He was then transferred to Columbia City, where he remained but a short time, being next stationed in charge of St. Mary's church, Fort Wayne. In the year 1880 he was sent by Bishop Dwenger to Lafayette, as pastor of the St. Mary's church of that city. The field was a hard one, but he filled it with so much credit to himself, and showed so clearly his superior ability, that later he was given the bishopric of Nashville, Tenn. Bishop Rademacher's consecration occurred on June 24, 1883, in the Cathedral of Nashville, Archbishop P. H. Feehan, of Chicago officiating. In his new field of duties Bishop Rademacher will be honored as he has been in the past. "Deus conservet eum—ad multos annos!"

The information has not been received at the episcopal residence in this city authoritively but will no doubt reach here in due course of time and through Monsignor Satolli.

Bishop Rademacher's diocese, of Nashville, will, no doubt, be filled by Father Henry Mueller, of Cincinnati, who was strongly recommended for the diocese of Fort Wayne.

The responsibility for the terrible accident at the world's fair on Monday should be fixed and the parties made to suffer for their negligence.

In an article published on our first page today we give a resume of the present condition of the city's manufacturing establishments as far as business and the employment of labor is concerned. While they are not overcrowded with work, the outlook is encouraging and as good as it was last year. Fort Wayne's busy industries are in good shape, notwithstanding the late financial flurry in different parts of the country.

The contest for the supreme court judgeship was settled yesterday when Governor Matthews issued a commission to Judge Joseph S. Dailey, of Bluffton. The appointment is an excellent one. Judge Dailey is a man of splendid legal abilities and a jurist whose worth and fitness have been proven by his service on the bench. He is a native of Wells county, a graduate of the university of Bloomington and is well known throughout northern Indiana.

A cablegram from Rome to the Cincinnati Wahrheits Freund, a German Catholic paper of high repute, says that Bishop Rademacher, of Nashville, Tenn., has been transferred by the pope to Fort Wayne and made bishop of this diocese. If this information is correct, the appointment is certainly an excellent one. Bishop Rademacher is well known here, having formerly been pastor of the St. Mary's church in this city. He is a man of splendid executive ability, learned, and stands high in Catholic church circles.

New Trotting Records.

During the past ten years the American turf has been revolutionized in many respects and in nothing so much as in regard to the trotting record. In the days of our grandfathers a horse that could trot in 2:40 was considered fast and one which could lower this record was something of a wonder, but now there are horses in every city, town and village that can do this, and most of this speed has been attained during the last ten and five years.

When Maud S. made a record at Pittsburg in 1881 of 2:10¼ it was considered amazing, and the belief was general that the trotter had very nearly reached the limit of speed. When Maud S., four years later, at Cleveland, made her famous record of 2:08¾, her owner retired her, and the belief of horsemen was general that her record would last for many years. Sunol lowered this record to 2:08¼, at Stockton, Cal., in 1891. All previous performances, however, were completely overshadowed by Nancy Hanks, when last year at Terre Haute she trotted around a mile track in 2:04. It must be admitted, however, that this astounding performance was partially due to mechanical causes, the introduction of the pneumatic tires on sulkies being responsible for two or three seconds of the reduction in time, but the fact, nevertheless, remains true that the American trotter is improving every year, and with the recent reforms which have been instituted a splendid field for development is still open to him.

The principle has always been recognized that the speed of the trotter may properly be favored by every mechanical invention or improvement. In the last ten years it has been so favored very materially by improvements in shoeing, leg appliances, sulkies, tracks, etc. The kite shaped track and the pneumatic sulky have proved highly advantageous to speed, but they are as legitimate as any improvements previously introduced.

The old fashioned sulky and circular track have become "back numbers." New records are to be made under the new, not the old conditions.

American Girls and Foreigners.

It has been said recently that if American women continue to marry foreigners at the rate they have been doing, not only will the British peerage soon be Americanized, but the nobility of every other European country as well. These American girls [illegible] ambition [illegible] to [illegible] is a grand [illegible] when directed [illegible] but when it leads the American [illegible] to abandon her own country and people, rights, privileges and [illegible] all the chances to [illegible] in her own country [illegible] this so cial ambition is misplaced and both the man of a family should be made to realize that it is the most probable road to matrimonial woe. American women are sensible, practical in many things, but in this very marriage question, both as mothers, who have the sacred care of their daughters' interests, and as young women, ambitious to fill an important niche in society and in the world, they evince a lack of judgment and foresight. And these two qualifications are indispensable in all questions of vital importance. Parents have enough experience and knowledge of men and things, as they are in general, to know what young girls cannot know, and should therefore exercise their authority in all matters pertaining to the highest interests of their children. Young girls, who marry against the will of reasonable and loving parents can, in the opinion of Ladies' Home Journal, make up their minds that disappointment if not something worse will be their lot. As far as the foreigner is concerned, he may be dazzled, captivated by the beauty, grace, perfect and independent ideas and manners in the American woman, but this very independence which he seems to admire in her while she is his friend or his betrothed, he will not tolerate in his wife. And the young girl, who sees but the varnished exterior of elegant manners, the persuasive and subtle compliment, will soon learn, to her own disappointment, that there lies a substance of a very realistic and unpleasant nature beneath this highly-colored rainbow tissue of her romantic imagination! There are but two degrees to pursue: to learn from the experience of others, or from one own. Those who do the former are like the five wise virgins; the latter are worse than the five foolish ones! The American girl need look no further than her own country to find the noblest, the grandest type of manhood on earth! Here, man respects and honors her womanhood, is willing to labor and make sacrifices for her happiness, bids her cheerfully to be a coworker, an honored guest of public life, when occasion demands, and loves her, not for what she has, but for what she is.

Levi Smith, of Acton, Mass., took a prominent part in the recent Bunker Hill celebration at Boston, as the only man living whose father fought at old North Bridge and Bunker Hill. He rode in a carriage, with a guard of honor dressed in continental uniform. Mr. Smith is eighty years old, and was the youngest of the family, born when his father was advanced in years. He was present when the corner stone of the Bunker Hill monument was laid, and wears a badge given him on that day. Mr. Smith was also one of the first to volunteer in 1861, and was with the Massachusetts regiment on their passage through Baltimore.

The insertion of lines in farces and comedies for the purpose of advertising is a new and dreadful development in the drama. Two young actors are allowed to advertise a certain brand of cigarettes, another actor calls attention to a wine that is used in a dinner scene, another probably gets free board for puffing a hotel in New York city in a most uncalled-for manner, and it is hinted that a popular lecturer is not without a motive other than educational for the complimentary allusions to a few European hotels whose pictures are shown among his views.

It is reported that a company in Savannah is engaged in the manufacture of india rubber from cotton seed oil. The product, which is said to be "shipped to a rubber dealer and manufacturer in Boston" is pronounced equal to the best South American product. The process of manufacture is a secret, but it is said that one of the agencies employed is electricity.

Most tribes of North American Indians have some tradition of the general deluge. The Musqualies of Iowa give an interesting account of it, and the tribes of Alaska declare that the waters were hot, which corresponds with the Talmudic narrative almost exactly.

A Missouri man is doing a good deal of blowing about twin mules which he claims to have. Naturalists are authority for the statement that twin mules are almost as much of a rarity as hen's teeth. The common sense solution is that they are too contrary to travel in pairs.

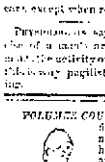
A Platte county (Neb.) woman of advanced years recently set sail on the sea of matrimony for the eighth time. That woman must be familiar with the shoals by this time.

A young woman in Milwaukee had her wedding postponed because on the night set a cat knocked a lamp off a table. Whether the house burned as a consequence is not stated.

In a Chinese Sunday school in Oregon the contribution plate was passed to a young convert, who looked at the plate and inquired, "What fo'?" "For the Lord," said his teacher. On the following Sunday the plate again stopped in front of him. "What fo'?" he asked again, and once more he was told that the money was for the Lord. Thereupon a look of perplexity came over his face, which found expression in the inquiry: "Lord all time blokee?"

Street car conductors in Hannibal, Mo., are, we are informed, forbidden to aid women when getting on or off cars, except when requested.

Physiologists say that active exercise of a man's arms and chest promote the activity of his mind. Perhaps this is why pugilists do so much talking.



VOLUMES COULD BE WRITTEN, filled with the testimony of women who have been made well and strong by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It's a medicine that's made especially to build up women's strength and to cure women's ailments—an invigorating, restorative tonic, soothing cordial, and bracing nervine; purely vegetable, nonalcoholic, and perfectly harmless. For all the functional derangements, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses that afflict womankind, the "Favorite Prescription" is the only guaranteed remedy.

It must have been the medicine for most women, or it couldn't be sold on any such terms.

ATTACHED AN ENGINE!

An Ohio Treasurer Levies on the "Mahoning" Railroad.

Taking a Locomotive and a Caboose to Secure the Payment of Taxes—The Road in Bad Shape.

An outgoing freight train on the Findlay, Fort Wayne and Western railroad had just been made up and was ready to start out from Findlay, Ohio, on its trip yesterday forenoon when Minor Wickham, deputy collector of taxes under Treasurer Shaw, appeared on the scene and levied upon the engine and caboose.

The levy was made to secure the payment of taxes, the amount due being $2,253. The road has paid no taxes for three years past, the officers making one excuse and another for the failure to pay. As it is about to pass into the hands of a receiver, and as Treasurer Shaw's official term is drawing to a close, he thought it was time to be taking some action. The engine and caboose were chained to the track and will remain thus until the taxes are paid.

Next Monday the hearing will come up before Judge Richie, at Lima, on the application of the bond holders for the appointment of a receiver. It is claimed by those who assume to know, that Contractor Patterson has reached the end of his string, and can do nothing more, but that the bond holders will take possession of the road and complete it. The road has not been meeting its bills for some months, and it is five months since the pay car has been sent out. The employes have been paid in driblets a portion of the amount due them, but are very blue about receiving the balance. In the meantime, numerous judgments are being taken against the company, and some mechanic's liens are being filed.

Self Praise.

Self praise is no recommendation, but there are times when one must permit a person to tell the truth about himself. When what he says is supported by the testimony of others no reasonable man will doubt his word. Now, to say that Allcock's Porous Plasters are the only genuine and reliable porous plasters made is not self praise in the slightest degree. They have stood the test for over thirty years, and in proof of their merits it is only necessary to call attention to the cures they have effected and to the voluntary testimonials of those who have used them.

Beware of imitations, and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Allcock's, and let no solicitation or explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

CRUEL JULY.

Fearful Death-Rate This Month.

Infants Die for Better Food.

Anxiety in Thousands of Homes.

Improper Diet Should Be Avoided.

Lactated Food the Preventive of Cholera Infantum.

The Safest and Best for Little Ones.

Pre-Eminently the Most Nourishing and Natural.

Thousands of homes are now thoughtful and anxious for the safety of the little ones during the hot weather.

No one thing is so essential to their health and safety as a wise choice of food.

In the four summer weeks ending July 17, last year, the mortality of infants under a year old in this state amounted to 18.2 per cent; under two years, 10 per cent; under 5 years, 61 per cent of the total mortality. The mortality of babies under a year was about equal to the total average mortality for the whole year of all diseases under 10 years.

The cold, cruel, statistical proofs which might be accumulated indefinitely, show only what physicians know too well, that improper diet in the summer destroys baby life in uncommon numbers. And they prove, also, that it is mainly the infants who suffer from the effects of the season, on this account.

The epidemic of bowel affections of children frequently corresponds with the rise in temperature, but the causes always lie in unsuitable diet.

An absolutely pure and reliable infant food had therefore been eagerly sought for years as a substitute for pure mother's milk.

Lactated food solved the problem completely. It stands today pre-eminent above all others. Infants fed upon it suffer less, and fewer die, it is now well known, than those fed upon anything else. It is used in the big charitable institutions for children. It has saved the lives of thousands of infants during the hot, dangerous months of summer.

It is indorsed by the best physicians, by nurses, and by happy, grateful mothers in every town and village in the land.

Sugar of milk, the basis of mother's milk, is the basis of lactated food. With it is combined pure barley malt, the finest wheat gluten, and the nutritious elements of the oat. It is thoroughly cooked by high steam heat, and a predigested, nutritious food is made that fulfills every requirement of the growing child. It is by far the safest food a child can eat in the summer. It is a true preventive of cholera infantum.

No home where there is an infant can afford to be without it.

Lactated food saves babies' lives!

"OVERHEARD."

"The money is coming by the 11:30 express, and the president [illegible] the depot [illegible] receive it and see it safely in the bank to-night."

The speaker was the cashier of the Houston bank. His companion looked a little troubled, and finally said softly:

"How careless, when you know that any of those [illegible] who hang around the depot might murder one for $2,000!"

"Fortunately none of them will suspect anything about it," he replied.

They were standing under a tree whose luxuriant, glossy leaves contrasted vividly with its crimson blossoms. Its neighbor was a giant plant tree, under whose pendent branches the purple fruit lay ankle-deep. But even the [illegible] were drowsed in the warm shade without noticing the delicious sweets begging to be devoured.

In the distance rose the tropical forest, with its massive trunks, each crowned with odorous white, pink or purple blossoms, the whole interlaced and bound together by vines that threw themselves from tree to tree with the wildest abandon, forming festoons after festoons of dazzling stars, and again embracing some tree with a ceaseless strength that slowly crushed out its life.

The time was about nine in the morning, yet the thermometer registered 95, and a drop of clear drinkable water seemed rarer and more desirable than a diamond.

Brilliant butterflies fluttered about, while insects on whose marvelous wings glistened every color of the rainbow, danced and hummed, perfectly contented with themselves and the world.

On the palpitating air came the rich powerful voice of a negro singing as he swung the scythe, and though many a [illegible] lay between him and his listeners, each tone came full and clear, with a weird undertone of sadness that moved the young people strangely.

Slowly they made their way to the house, a plain, square structure, mounted on four posts. Even with this precaution the inmates were likely to find four or five feet of snake calmly reposing under the blankets, while in the green peanut vines and tasseling corn they were as plenty as chicks in a New England barnyard.

Inside the house the furniture and walls were of the rudest, for Mr. Fredericks and his daughter Meetzie had only arrived a few months previous, and the crops demanded almost constant attention.

Father and daughter had arrived together, but soon after they had written to Meetzie's old nurse, and she had agreed to come with her five children, to bake the corn cakes and fetch drinking water the necessary two miles.

They arrived in the afternoon, and when Mr. Fredericks' coach at the depot they sat in a long, disconsolate row on the bench [illegible]. The children were soon piled on the straw in the bottom of the wagon, while the nurse occupied half the seat. Darkness had fallen when the dark forest road leading to the plantation was reached.

This "smaly" road was simply a narrow clearing forced by cutting off the huge trunks leaving the stumps two or three feet high. The trunks were laid side by side as nearly as possible, forming a road interspersed with gaps veiled by numerous stumps. The span drew the rough home-made wagon swiftly along, and as perfect Egyptian darkness reigned, Mr. Fredericks left them to their own sweet will.

The seat had springs but alas for the quartet in the rear! First one wheel rose high in the air, jolting them all to the opposite corner. They had hardly extricated their own members from the tangle of limbs, when a rapid succession of jolts and jars took away every particle of breath, making them gasp as if immersed in a sudden cold bath. Then over the rear of the wagon suddenly took unto itself wings, precipitating them all under the seat. Their shrieks and groans meanwhile would have made the blood of the boldest Hen run cold, and it was with much relief that all parties reached the clearing and entered the hut.

This was already [illegible] the young [illegible] and as Meetzie and her lover [illegible] they beheld the two seated in the shade, resembling Cupids in the [illegible] of their attire, and receiving [illegible] and plums to their greedy hearts' content.

The holiday over, Will Franklin rode back to the store, Meetzie accompanying him part way on her white pony, Daisy.

[illegible] the planter and his daughter discussing their rude meal of corn cakes and molasses, the children romping about the room [illegible] [illegible] all was [illegible].

"[illegible] is coming," and Meetzie [illegible] the window and [illegible] Meetzie rose hastily [illegible] "I'll [illegible] Daisy [illegible] and as she stands [illegible] I'll get her into her stall before the storm begins."

Although it was very dark she [illegible] Daisy's shining coat [illegible] into the stable. [illegible] and as Meetzie stood in the dark she heard low voices in whispered consultation.

The last words sent the blood [illegible] to her cheeks and then to her heart, leaving her [illegible] as a statue. But after the men had separated, she [illegible] Daisy, with trembling fingers and [illegible] heart and throwing an old cloak that hung in the shed, [illegible] toward Houston and her life.

Meanwhile Will Franklin sat [illegible] on the bench in the depot, thinking how soon he would ask Meetzie to be his. [illegible] The only other occupant of the [illegible] apparently fast asleep on a neighboring bench.

Soon the whistle of the train was heard, and Will, jumping up, ran out just in time to receive the package [illegible] him by the conductor.

Briskly passing along the already deserted streets he soon noticed, with anxiety, the rapidly nearing storm. He reached the bank and had just turned the key in the lock when he received a terrible blow on the head. He turned blindly to defend himself when another blow struck him. One moan of terrible anguish, and he threw out his arms and sank down insensible.

Two negroes quickly stepped into the bank, drew the unconscious form after him and shut the door. "The vault key is in his pocket," whispered one, a villainous looking fellow, the other, who bore a suspicious resemblance to the sleeper on the bench, obeyed. They were both soon busy in the absorbing task of transferring part of the contents of the vault into a bag, light being furnished by a lantern lit by one of them.

Out in the forest, meanwhile, Meetzie's white lips were urging her horse to its utmost. She heard the cry of the animals, who felt the coming storm, bats brushed her face with their ghostly wings, and her mare pitched and stumbled like a vessel in a gale. But on she plunged, and at last Houston's lights twinkled in the distance.

"To the depot," she murmured hoarsely, but when she reached it all was deserted. Her horse swayed and fell on its knees, but Meetzie, extricating herself, ran—ran as she never had before.

Reaching the bank, she saw the gleam of light through the keyhole. Opening the door, she stumbled over the apparently lifeless body of her lover.

The robbers were so engrossed with their fascinating occupation that they had forgotten the chances of discovery. Had they been content with the money wrested from Will, all might have been well. But their greed was their ruin.

As Meetzie entered, in a flash she realized the situation. The next instant the vault door swung to with a crash, and the robbers were helpless.

Then her self control gave way, and her shrieks soon alarmed the neighborhood. She and her lover were removed by friendly hands, while the would-be murderers were safely housed in the lock up.

Will was not dead, but under Meetzie's tender care became, after many a weary month, well enough to accept the most generous salary offered him by the bank directors, and also the position of son-in-law to Mr. Fredericks.

As for the two men whose conversation Meetzie had accidentally overheard, they were the brothers of the two robbers, and had overheard the lovers. The four had immediately concocted a plan for obtaining the money, and after escaping to the coast, had intended boarding one of the numerous vessels which stop for fuel on their way to some South American colony.

Two of the men had gone to Houston to lay in wait for Will, while the other pair of rascals were just making their last secret arrangements when overheard by Meetzie. It is needless to say that their proposed pleasure [illegible] never featured.

Ten years later a handsome villa stood on the former site of the log cabin, while on the green, velvety lawn a white pony was quietly feeding.—New York Journal

Peter [illegible], a [illegible] fruit grower, took the stand against him and said:

"I was a-goin' along Mission street yesterday afternoon an' was attracted by a loud shoutin' as if a political meetin' was in progress. This man was makin' all th' noise. He stood by th' door of a small house an' shouted something like this:

"Wake or christening?"

"Neither; only th' openin' of th' base ball season."

"And how's the menagerie now?"

"All gone but th' [illegible] monkey and th' blue [illegible] an' a few variegated birds."

"Ten days to get the zoological out of your system."

CATCHER M'MAHON.

Sketch of the Clever Young Player with the Giants.

John Henry McMahon, a young and promising catcher, now with the New York Club of the National League and American Association, was born Oct. 15, 18[illegible], at Waterbury, Conn. About seven years ago he took up his residence at Bridgeport and it was there that he learned to play ball. His first professional engagement was in [illegible], with the Saginaw Club which finished second in the race for the pennant of the Michigan State League, with fifty-nine victories and thirty-eight defeats to its credit. In 18[illegible], he caught for the Manistee (Mich.) Club, and in 1891, he caught for the Duluth Club of the Western Association. McMahon commenced the season of 1892 with the Kansas City Club of the Western League, and took part in forty-two championship games, in thirty-six of which he caught, ranking third in batting and second of the catchers in the official averages of that organization. When the Western League disbanded, McMahon was engaged by the New York Club, with which he finished the season of 1892, taking part in thirty-six championship games, in thirty-four of which he filled first base, ranking fifth in that position in the official fielding averages. During the present season McMahon has creditably filled the catcher's position in a number of the championship contests of the New York team. He has so far shown fine

THE electrocution of Carlyle Harrison is a salutary warning that in the present advanced stage of science and medical jurisprudence murder by poisoning is not to be perpetrated with impunity. Though there be no eye witness and no direct testimony the crime may be proved and the criminal brought to justice by a chain of circumstantial evidence that renders escape impossible. There has been much sentimental talk about the danger of unjustly convicting on such evidence. But it is a necessity in many cases, if murder is to be punished, and when it points conclusively to guilt it is open to no valid objection.
